How is a legal marriage organised in Italy?Religious Wedding

By Italian law the only church permitted to perform legally binding church weddings is the Catholic church, however, a Protestant blessing can be performed in a Protestant church, or in the halls or gardens of villas or hotels.

Civil legal wedding

A Civil wedding has legal value and by Italian law can only be celebrated in a Town Hall. Most of these town halls are situated in beautiful historical buildings, villas or grand palaces owned by the local government. Legal weddings can also be organised at Colletto Villas but then a little more planning is required.

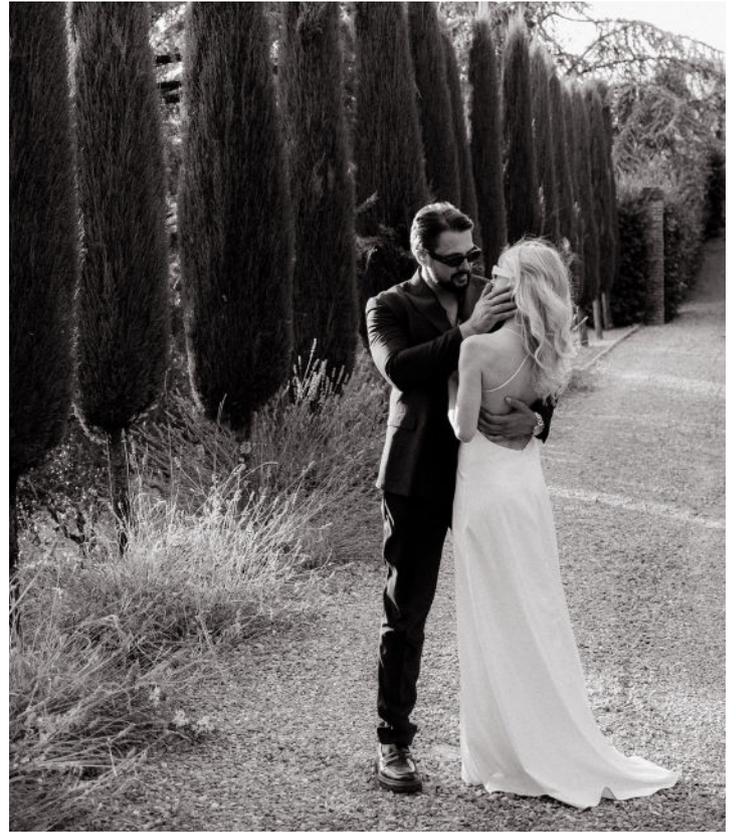

Symbolic or blessing Ceremonies

To avoid civil and religious requirements and documents, a symbolic wedding is a valid alternative. It consists a blessing or a symbolic ceremony and is not legally binding, so no paperwork is required.
